A Message From

Secretary Harry K. Singletary, Jr.

As we prepare for the 21st Century, we would do well to remember the immortal words of that late great politician, Hubert Humphrey who once said: "Instead of worrying about the future, let us labor and create it." His thoughts summarize the way Florida and the Florida Department of Corrections must prepare for what lies ahead. Professionalism in our work enables us to create the future.

Being a "professional" to me includes the capacity to be a "critical subordinate." Critical subordinates are staff who have perfected the art and science of following. They are invaluable. Critical subordinates get the job done because of "who they are," and not solely because of "for whom or where they work." They are professionals driven by internal principles, values, ethics and a code of conduct. They actively keep their supervisors informed, working in a frank and honest way to achieve joint, beneficial goals.

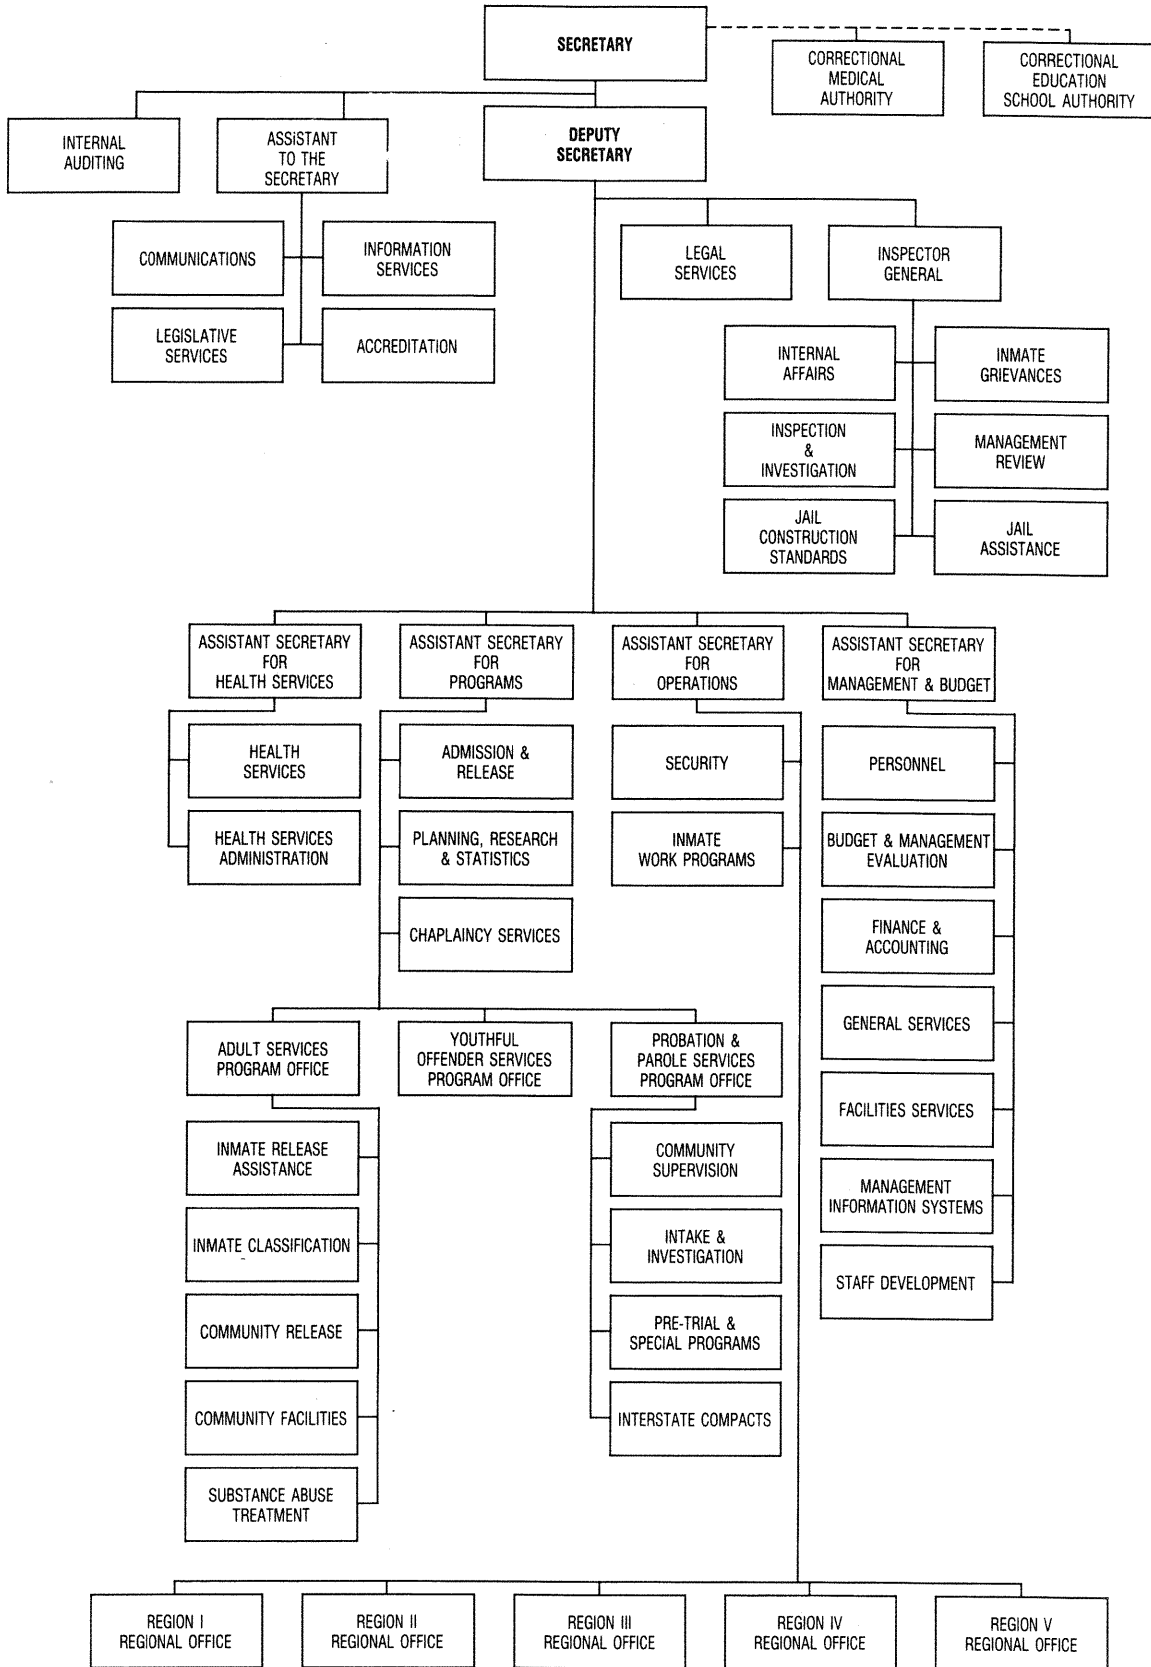

Possessing a "can do" attitude and filled with the spirit of "the team," they avoid unnecessary confrontations, but will always stand up for ideas and principles they believe are right and important to the team and its mission. They act as a conscience for themselves and others to keep everyone heading in the right direction. They are willing to put their judgement on the line and are satisfied when judged by the results of their decisions and work product. These self starters are able to work without much guidance, thinking through the tasks at hand independently and critically. They have original ideas that benefit and produce answers as well as questions. They are creative forces that perceive and maintain our organizations' vision.

Supervisors should not be threatened by critical subordinates. Wise supervisors know the benefits to be derived from these capable employees, therefore they deliberately set out to develop them. Effective supervisors encourage people who work for them to use their heads and to share the responsibility for improving performance. When critical subordinates are effectively supervised, then the subordinates, their supervisors and the organization all succeed.

I challenge each supervisor and employee in the Department to adopt the characteristics of a critical subordinate. If this challenge is met, the Department will be instantly more productive. There is no substitute for each member of the Department being able to grasp our vision of the future and to move collectively toward our goals. For a team to be successful, everyone must play their role and play it correctly. Individual wants and desires must become secondary to the success of the organization. Team members must be willing to change roles and assume other roles to insure organizational success.

We need more critical subordinates, enlightened supervisors and a creative environment to stimulate growth. We should more often hear, "Here I am send me," rather than, "It's not my job." Let everyone of us commit to "us and we" and not "them and they." Let us have pride in our work and in the Department of Corrections. Let's be sincere and help everyone to believe in themselves, in what we are doing and in our organization. Remember, those who dare to reach, lead, direct, correct, or guide must never cease to learn.

REGIONAL ORGANIZATION

Correctional institutions, community facilities and probation and parole offices are administered through five geographic regions. Each region is headed by a regional director who supervises the activities of the superintendent of each major institution, the superintendent of community facilities and the regional probation and parole administrator. The regional director is responsible for financial administration and personnel management within his region and for ensuring that department policies are carried out and standards are met. Regional organizations and functions are shown below.

TYPICAL ORGANIZATION

REGIONAL FUNCTIONS

Each regional office coordinates activities and solves problems at major institutions in accordance with standard Department diagnosis, evaluation, referral, classification and case management procedures.

The activities of all community correctional centers, road prisons, vocational training centers, work camps, forestry camps, and probation and restitution centers are also directed by the regional office in accordance with Central Office policies and directives.

The offices coordinate and direct all probation and parole services and activities in accordance with policy guidelines and program directives from the Central Office, to include supervision, investigation, intake and diversionary programs.

Each office performs personnel management activities, including maintenance of personnel files and related records for personnel of community facilities, probation and parole offices and the regional office. In addition, regional offices maintain property accounting records, document all property transactions and maintain property management and control. The regional offices also prepare and submit regional budgets, monitor operating accounts and expenditures and supervise regional fund allocations and releases.

As required by ss.20.315(16), F.S., the Department of Corrections has developed recommendations for improving the delivery of correctional services in the State. The recommendations address views and requirements that have become apparent in the areas of policy needs, facilities necessary to remain ahead of inmate population growth and personnel requirements to ensure optimal effectiveness of departmental staff. Based on the accomplishments of 1990-91 and assessments of requirements for further progress toward established departmental priority issues and objectives as set forth in the Department's Agency Functional Plan and Comprehensive Correctional Master Plan, it is recommended that action be taken and/or resources be provided to accomplish the following:

- Restructuring of the Florida sentencing system to target dangerous offenders for longer sentences.
- Legislative approval of resources necessary to house violent offenders for at least 70% of their sentence length.
- Community-based supervision of violent offenders upon release from prison.
- Full implementation of the Community Corrections Partnership Act.
- Construction of secure and less secure drug treatment facilities for less severe offenders.
- Development of a comprehensive plan to solicit community participation in reducing criminality.
- Education of the public concerning the cost effective use of community based supervision programs which are grounded on good risk assessment procedures.

- Increased effectiveness of probation as a primary community-based sanction through use of risk and needs assessments and specialized caseloads.
- Approved less-than-lethal, yet effective use of force alternatives for officers transporting inmates or supervising them in hospitals.
- Expanded Tier I substance abuse treatment programs for correctional institutions and community correctional centers where appropriate and improved curriculum.
- Increased availability of coordinated, inter-agency relapse prevention programs and aftercare services and development of the concept of linkage between treatment programs and community resources.
- Expansion of the Probation Restitution Center concept to incorporate social service, drug treatment and basic education delivery system into each center.
- Efficient classification and reception of inmates, identifying special needs and emphasizing proper placement in the system.
- Enhanced correctional health services for inmates as set forth in the Correctional Health Services Plan, with emphasis on those who are elderly or who are physically or mentally impaired.
- Development and implementation of a pilot sexual disorders clinic to provide intensive treatment for inmates who suffer from various sexual disorders.

- Enhanced health services for female inmates, to provide for their special needs.
- Enable Correctional Education School Authority (CESA) to conduct 150 hours of mandatory literacy training for inmates with two years or more remaining on their sentences and a test score less than 9.0 grade level.
- Enable CESA to train inmates who are within five years of release in one or more vocational skills.
- Enhanced job finding assistance to offenders through expansion of Department of Labor and Employment Security (DLES) staff dedicated to this purpose.
- Development of an internship program for criminal justice students.

ACTIVITIES SECTION

HUMAN RESOURCE RECRUITMENT, TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT

Professionalism in corrections begins with the selection of top quality candidates for positions in the Department. The Bureau of Personnel spearheaded a commitment to excellence in recruiting departmental employees. This fiscal year, an automated applicant tracking system was initiated to generate response letters to applicants for positions within the Department and assist in compiling data to be used in developing and maintaining the Affirmative Action Plan. The Bureau of Staff Development and Training has developed a recruitment video which explains the mission of the Department and the many job opportunities available to employees. This video is now used at job fairs and in other recruitment programs to attract interested persons seeking positions in the correctional field.

Sgt. Doug Irvin of Putnam C.I. is pinned at his promotion by Assistant Superintendent Charles Brown and Lieutenant Danny Pearson.

In keeping with departmental objectives to provide a structured career pattern for line and administrative staff, the Department employed a consultant to provide recommendations regarding Correctional Officer promotional policies. Many of the suggestions received will help the Department ensure the most qualified people are promoted. A number of these suggestions will be implemented over the next 12 months.

"The Department desires a level of professional competence which includes sensitivity to all components of our work force."

"A professional organization provides for the needs of its employees."

The Department desires a level of professional competence which includes sensitivity to all components of our work force. To achieve this end training is being conducted concerning both cultural diversity and sexual harassment. Affirmative Action Committees meet on a quarterly basis at each hiring location to ensure the Department provides opportunities for minorities and females. The Department has continued its progress in the area of Affirmative Action by increasing minority employment to 25% and female employment to 36%.

The Department was recently successful in implementing a higher Competitive Area Differential (CAD) for Correctional Officers in Brevard County. The CAD was raised from $1,000 annually to $3,800 annually. This increase allows Correctional Officers in Brevard County to be paid at a rate consistent with that being received by Correctional Officers in neighboring Orange County. Also in a continuing effort to attract and retain nurses, the Department has implemented a salary scale based on an applicant's years of nursing experience allowing salaries which are more competitive with those paid by other organizations in the labor market.

A professional organization provides for the needs of its employees. Within the Department, procedures have been developed for improved processing of Workers' Compensation cases and for the operation of a Sick Leave Pool which may be used by employees suffering catastrophic accidents or illnesses. Employees are now participating in their first open enrollment period for the Sick Leave Pool.

CONSTRUCTION

The Bureau of Facilities Services has continued to strive for a high level of professionalism in managing the Department's construction program. Use of proto-type plans provides a standardized approach to projects and minimizes unnecessary changes. Additionally, training was conducted to increase staff familiarity with common construction management procedures and methods. This effort was enhanced during the summer of 1990 by including institutional construction and maintenance staff in the training offered during workshops conducted by the Office of Management and Budget. Upgrades of specific professional positions have contributed to increased interest of highly qualified applicants in departmental positions.

The Bureau's recently acquired mini-computer with its network system, which provide the ability to share files and documents, contributes to uniformity in construction procedures. This uniformity conveys a strong level of quality and professionalism to external construction or operational personnel with whom the Department contracts.

The Bureau played a supportive role in developing the new drug treatment centers by generating prototype plans for the buildings making up these centers. Some plans were derived from experience gained in designing work camps; however, buildings to house educational, treatment and medical programs required new plans to be developed. The planning process which produced these useful, efficient facilities was the result of team work between program staff and the staff of the Bureau of Facilities Services.

CASHLESS CANTEEN PROJECT

A professional correctional system incorporates technology in its management of inmates. In 1990 the Department went on-line with the only known inmate operated computerized point-of-sale system. Known within the Department as the Cashless Canteen project, the system has three primary goals.

1) To eliminate cash within the institution, thereby reducing the opportunity for drug deals, bribes and strong-arm tactics,

2) To provide a more efficient way of keeping track of inventory and reducing pilferage,

3) To provide a more efficient way to handle reordering of stock.

The first goal was accomplished by use of a new laminated photo ID badge with a "blacked out" bar-code. The tamper-proof bar-code is only readable by an infra-red scanner.

When an inmate makes a purchase from a canteen, the purchase is "charged" against his Cashless Canteen account, thereby eliminating the need for an inmate to have cash. Cash is now considered to be contraband and is confiscated if found on an inmate. Inmates receive a monthly statement of all charges.

The second goal, better inventory control, was achieved by keeping the inventory for each canteen and the warehouse on the computer. Each time a purchase is made the inventory is reduced. Transfer reports are also automatically generated when inventory is transferred from warehouse to canteen. Thus, the warehouse and business office personnel have up to the minute accurate information available to them on the inventory.

OFFICE AUTOMATION

By keeping a perpetual inventory in this manner, the system met the third goal. When a predetermined reorder-point is reached, the system generates an order for the item. The system is able to generate purchase requests as well as provide alternate suppliers if a vendor is out of a particular item. This function was previously a time-consuming manual task.

Additionally, the project has eliminated the need for staff time spent to enter the amount of cash to be drawn for each inmate, obtain money from the bank and distribute the money to the inmates. Since none of these tasks need be done in a cashless environment, the Department has regained an estimated 3 man-days each week per institution for other work.

As a result of the success of this project the Department acquired cashless canteen systems for 9 more institutions in FY 1990-91 with 16 more scheduled for FY 1991-92. The Department continues to look for more ways to improve the business office function through the use of automation.

Using the infra-red bar-code scanner at Madison C.I. cashless canteen.

The Department of Corrections is dedicated to enhancing employee productivity as much as possible as well as finding ways to reduce costs. The Department's office automation project is an excellent example where technology has been used to accomplish both of these goals.

By building over 125 forms into the system, the Department's personnel can always have the latest version of a form available. No longer need old forms be used up or thrown away when a new version is implemented. Computer generated forms are less expensive than pre-printed forms. Furthermore, no space has to be dedicated for storage of blank forms.

"The Department continues to look for more ways to improve the business office function through the use of automation."

Another benefit cited by the staff include pride of workmanship in producing professional looking documents. The benefits of this feature are evidenced by the belief among Probation and Parole officers that the more professional a pre-sentence investigation looks, the more likely a judge will consider its contents when making a sentence decision.

Further efficiency and cost reduction is achieved through utilization of electronic mail. Wasted time in playing "telephone tag" and costly overnight express charges are substantially reduced.

Word Processing Operators at the Gainesville Main P & P Office.

This year the Department upgraded several computers in the Probation and Parole circuits to keep up with the growth in the offender population. In addition, the Department has begun the automation of major institutions and hopes to gain similar benefits in this area. New office automation systems were installed this year at Madison CI, Walton CI, Jefferson CI, and Charlotte CI. North Florida Reception Center also received a larger computer to keep up with their growth.

In moving office automation into the institutions, the Department has found even more opportunities to be a leader in government. One such area is in the use of fiber optic cabling. Since fibre optic cabling is almost impervious to lightning, the Department first used it as a way to minimize down time and lightning damage in the office automation systems. Expanding on this idea, however, the Department, in conjunction with the Department of General Services, is now pioneering the combining of voice and data on the same fiber optic cable; the first such project by a State of Florida agency.

At the end of the fiscal year the Department's office automation system reached over 1,700 users located at over 160 linked locations statewide. The system makes Corrections the largest integrated statewide office automation network in state government and one of the largest office automation systems in the southeast.

HEALTH SERVICES

The Department of Corrections has made great strides in enhancing the professional delivery of health services. The system provides unrestricted access to quality and cost effective health care for all inmates that meet community standards. Major efforts during the year included:

- An expanded health information component of the Offender Based Information System - Health Services (OBIS-HS) which added on-line dental and outside care records for each inmate to the existing on-line medical record,

- A quality management program which enabled the Department to monitor access and delivery of health care services with a primary focus on quality of care,

-A utilization review program which coordinated, monitored and facilitated the delivery of needed community health care services to inmates,

-A risk management program which included identification, investigation, analysis, and evaluation of risks, and the selection of the most advantageous method of correcting, reducing, or eliminating identifiable risks.

Cost containment accomplishments during the year included: contracting per diem reductions, a renegotiated contract reducing cost for telemedicine laboratory services and radiographic services. Additionally, savings were realized in claims review and the South Florida Reception Center, all of which approximated 6.7 million dollars in total cost avoidance.

Health Resources

Primary health care is provided to inmates through ambulatory care centers in each major correctional institution (45). Each center provides primary care in medical, dental and mental health. Secondary and tertiary care is accessed by the Department primarily through the use of community health care resources.

Intermediate care resources of the Department include 324 infirmary beds in the 46 major institutions, 117 intermediate care beds at North Florida Reception Center, 126 crisis stabilization mental health beds, 49 transitional mental health care beds, and 132 acute psychiatric beds in a contract facility in which the Department is the sole user.

This health care system served a changing population of 88,035 individual inmates during the fiscal year, while the status population for the year was 46,233. The health services program employed 2,103 staff which held predominantly clinical positions. Medical care services delivered 3,796,950 encounters ranging from medication issuance to acute hospital care. Specialized treatment programs included: chronic disease patients, women's health care, HIV testing and counseling, identification of AIDS patients meeting CDC standards, terminal illness, special needs inmates (such as the elderly) and disease entity consolidation.

Donna Lamm preparing a peripheral blood smear to be examined microscopically at N.F.R.C.'s Pathology Lab.

Mental Health

During Fiscal Year 1990-91, the Department enhanced many aspects of its mental health care delivery system, including: promulgation of comprehensive mental health policy, standardization of intake screening and evaluation, the opening of a 49-bed intermediate care unit, and implementation of uniform care for inmates needing on going outpatient treatment, including those who suffer from sexual disorders. Currently, about 441 staff positions, including 25 psychiatrists, 52 psychologists, 182 counselors, and 46 psychiatric nurses provide ongoing care to a total case load of about 3,900 inmates, roughly 8.7% of the total inmate population. More than 3,700 of the 3,900 inmates comprising the total mental health case load are treated on an outpatient basis while residing within the general inmate population. This represents an increase in the use of lesser restrictive and less costly outpatient versus inpatient services. Mental health staff provided services through approximately 461,348 encounters with inmates.

Radiology Lab at N.F.R.C. Rose McKenna training Pat Paul in x-ray techniques.

Inmate Education

A new AIDS 101 video/study guide program was developed in cooperation with the Florida Departments of Education and Health and Rehabilitative Services. The video won second place in the John Muir Medical Film Festival. Some 99,153 inmates received 12,171 hours of AIDS related training and documentation.

Staff Education

Voluntary HIV testing was implemented, which required extensive training of medical staff on HIV pre and post testing counseling. Over 400 personnel were trained in these procedures. An AIDS education report also was submitted to the Legislature indicating approximately 19,270 employees received 40,218 hours of AIDS training during the fiscal year.

Five Health Care Staff Attain Certification for "Excellence in the Field"

Five Department of Corrections employees were among 200 corrections employees nationwide to receive certification as "Certified Correctional Health Professionals" (CCHP) by the National Commission on Correctional Health Care. This Commission identifies excellence in the field for physicians, dentists, nurses, pharmacists, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, psychologists, dietitians, x-ray and lab technicians, mental health workers and other health professionals employed in the correctional setting.

Those DC professionals who received certification are Dr. Bassam Amawi, Chief Health Care Officer at Tomoka C.I.; Dr. Joseph E. Paris, Medical Executive Director at North Florida Reception Center and Hospital; Dr. Dianne Rehtine, Chief Health Officer at New River C.I.; R.N. Arlee Graham, Director of Nursing at North Florida Reception Center; and R.N. Freida Heil, Region II Utilization Review Coordinator.

To be eligible for CCHP certification, the Florida applicants had to demonstrate a minimum of three years of correctional experience, valid credentials in their professional field and meet other requirements regarding character and professional reputation. The Florida candidates also had to pass a stringent written test to demonstrate knowledge regarding the provision of health services in a correctional setting. They are now among the first certified CCHP's in the nation and can be recognized as specialists in their field.

PROBATION AND PAROLE SERVICES

Probation and Parole Services experienced continued growth and expansion of services during the 1990-91 fiscal year. With a total operational budget of approximately 126 million dollars, 2,265 Correctional Probation Officers supervised over 101,000 offenders during the year. There were 155 office locations in operation at the close of the fiscal year.

With recent refinements and specialization of services for offenders on community based supervision in areas such as on-site drug testing, specialized caseloads and electronic monitoring, Probation and Parole staff must now possess enhanced professional skills and knowledge beyond some of the more traditional requirements of the job. Training of staff, both at the local and state level during the past year, has played a significant role in the "building" of a professional team to meet the challenges in this new decade.

"Probation and Parole staff must now possess enhanced professional skills and knowledge beyond some of the more traditional requirements of the job."

Staff Training

Each newly hired Correctional Probation Officer is required to complete a minimum of 380 hours of basic recruit training prior to assuming the duties of a full time officer. Over 100 hours of the Basic Training Curriculum offered to new officers are geared toward staff safety including such topics as weapons familiarization, chemical agents, self-defense, crisis intervention and conflict resolution. A training program has also been developed for both basic and advanced level Probation and Parole management staff. This training curriculum was devised and presented by Probation and Parole upper level management from the field and the Program Office.

P & P officers attending the Basic Recruit Training course.

Substance Abuse

Drug testing and treatment of offenders continues to be an integral component and a vital intervention of community based supervision through provision of a continuum of care for drug-involved offenders. This effort was supported last year through a $2,000,000 federal block grant which was supplemented by the state matching funds of $700,000. These funds were used to support expanded treatment and testing services for offenders as well as specialized substance abuse training for staff.

In addition, federal funding made it possible to purchase office automation equipment for every circuit statewide that was used to implement an offender based substance abuse tracking system. This program allows for the collection of substance abuse data for long term dispositional studies as well as an in-house tracking system of each offender participating in substance abuse programs. As a result of Probation and Parole's commitment to an aggressive testing policy, there has been a noted decline in the number of positive tests among supervised offenders. There was an 18% positive rate this year, down from 25% and 35% in the two preceding years.

For the fourth year the Institute of Police Technology and Management (IPTM) provided a highly regarded 40-hour specialized substance abuse training to 150 officers. This specialized training again proved to be informative and pertinent to the mission of Probation and Parole. In addition, 60 officers were involved in the Department's Annual Substance Abuse Training Workshop.

In the area of substance abuse treatment, officers referred over 12,000 offenders for treatment services. Through contracting and resource development efforts, a myriad of treatment services are made available to offenders including TASC intervention, out-patient and intensive out-patient counseling and residential treatment. There was a 45% success rate among those offenders placed in out-patient and residential programs.

Electronic Monitoring

The use of electronic monitoring as an enhancement to community control continued to receive judicial approval. This year the Department expanded electronic monitoring into all twenty (20) judicial circuits. There are now 750 active tamper-alert units in use throughout the State. These units are monitored on a 24-hour basis by private vendors who immediately report all violations to Probation and Parole staff for further investigation.

Investigative Tracking System

186,336 investigations were completed by Probation and Parole Officers during the year. In response to a need to manage this volume of investigations, a new automated approach was introduced this year to replace an outdated system that relied upon manually kept records. The Investigative Tracking System (ITS) Module was designed to collect data required to track investigations and to produce management reports about the data collected. The system can produce information concerning the type of investigations. This program was piloted in five (5) locations beginning in October of 1990 and will be ready for full implementation statewide next fiscal year.

Court Ordered Payments

In keeping with the Department's movement toward professional, automated operations, a system designed to replace manual methods of recording and processing Court Ordered Payments (COP) commenced pilot testing in May, 1991.

Dominique Day performing automated cost of supervision receipt system at the Gainesville Main P & P office.

The Court Ordered Payment System (COPS) collects and records payments made by offenders as ordered by the court. The system then disperses payments to designated payees. This system will replace the manual system of collecting, recording and processing court ordered payments with a more efficient system that automates clerical functions and information retrieval.

A major benefit of the COP System is enhanced accountability and uniformity of the collection process of over $ 17 million per year in Victim Restitution payments, as well as $ 6 million in Fines and Court Costs currently collected from offenders by the P & P Offices.

Staff Safety

This year Probation and Parole Services proceeded with implementation on several of the recommendations brought forth in the 1989 Staff Safety Task Force, included among these are:

- Hand-held portable radios tuned to law enforcement frequencies.
- Soft-body armor (vests) were piloted in all regions. Vests were purchased and may be issued to an individual officer upon threat by an offender or member of the community.
- Non-flammable chemical agents are now authorized for use by Probation and Parole officers for self-defense purposes and in use against aggressive animals.
- 800 cellular telephones were purchased to provide instant communications for officers in emergency situations. This will also allow officers to conduct field supervision while remaining in their vehicles, thereby further reducing exposure.

SEX OFFENDER TRAINING FOR P & P OFFICERS

Over two hundred probation officers have now received specialized training in the supervision of sex offenders. Advanced training in this form of supervision is now being developed. A statewide directory for treatment providers has been distributed as well as recommendations concerning the criteria for working as a sex offender specialist. Regional task forces have been established in an effort to share information as to supervision of the offender and to discuss different concerns in dealing with treatment providers and the difficulties encountered while interacting with the judicial system.

Probation officers have been working with community mental health leaders in an effort to establish treatment programs that will meet the needs of the offenders they supervise. At times they must develop those programs in conjunction with treatment therapists. Officers work on committees and county wide task forces to provide a liaison between the Department of Corrections and the Community at large. The diligent and professional efforts of probation officers and staff working at this task is a shining example of the Department's commitment to the communities in which we serve.

STAFF DEVELOPMENT LEADS THE NATION

During FY 1990-91, the Bureau of Staff Development targeted several training areas to enhance the professionalism of correctional officers, correctional probation officers, administrative and support staff.

The Florida Department of Corrections continues to lead the nation in Computerized Interactive Video development and delivery. With eighteen learning labs located in major institutions, probation and parole circuit offices and regional offices, more than 150 students have completed 40-hour advanced and/or specialized training courses in such topic areas as Hostage Negotiations, Stress

Awareness and Resolution and Emergency Preparedness. Workshops on "Exploring Racial, Cultural and Gender Diversity" and a seminar on "Personal Infringements in the Work Place" were provided to selected administrative and support staff.

To supplement the recruitment process, the Bureau of Staff Development, in cooperation with the Bureau of Personnel, produced a seven-minute videotape, "Correctional Career Opportunities," which has been used at job fairs and exhibits. A "Sexual Harassment" video program is currently in production.

Florida Corrections Academy continues to provide a comprehensive curriculum of basic, advanced and specialized programs to correctional officer and correctional probation officer recruits. The Academy offers students the opportunity to meet with fellow recruits from throughout Florida in an academic environment that facilitates the exchange of diverse ideas and experiences.

Gregory Holcomb completes a Computerized Interactive Video Training Program at Daytona Beach P & P office.

Employees who attend the Academy can expect professional quality instruction, provided in an environment that complements the educational experience. Dormitory or hotel accommodations, as well as cost for meals and travel, are provided at Department expense to ensure that those employees attending are able to fully concentrate on their studies and achieve all desired training goals and objectives.

EXTERNAL SECURITY AUDITING PROGRAM

In order to maintain safe and secure correctional environments, to provide for public safety, and to insure that each major institution adheres to the same set of prescribed professional standards, the Department has expanded and refined the External Security Auditing Program. A key component of this program is the concept of the visiting Chief's of Security.

Under this concept, two or three visiting Chief's of Security are scheduled to assist either the Security Administrator or the Assistant Security Administrator (Team Leaders) in conducting intensive external Security Audits at scheduled institutions.

During the course of this process, the visiting Chiefs and host chiefs interact and share information. This aspect of the process makes the audit a significant learning experience for all concerned. Chiefs of Security learn about current mandated security standards and perhaps, more importantly, they learn from each other effective and efficient ways to operate their own departments. This approach helps to eliminate tunnel vision and increase understanding of the total system. It also creates an environment for chiefs to be able to measure their own operations against that of their peers.

INMATE LABOR SAVES FLORIDA'S DOLLARS

Several million dollars of cost to Florida taxpayers was avoided during fiscal year 1990-91 through work projects provided by inmate labor. The work done was classified into three categories: community service, highway maintenance, and prison construction and renovation. Community Service and Public Works squads provided 2 million hours of free labor for Florida cities, counties, other agencies and non-profit organizations. Based on an estimated value of $4 an hour, the labor performed without charge saved taxpayers more than $9.1 million during the year. The work included maintenance of buildings and grounds, litter control, street repairs and cleaning of drainage ditches.

Prison inmates performed a total of 1,787,321 hours of highway maintenance for the Department of Transportation (DOT) during the 1990-91 contract period. For this work, DOT paid the Department of Corrections $8.9 million in reimbursement to offset the cost of feeding and housing inmates assigned to highway maintenance projects.

In prison construction, inmates provided 2 million hours of labor to help renovate and expand existing prison facilities and to build new correctional institutions across Florida.

Additionally, each month the Department supplies 2,400 inmates for the prison industries program run by PRIDE, and more than 20,000 inmates are utilized at various work stations needed to maintain and operate the more than 100 correctional facilities statewide.

Boot Camp Staff Competes for "Most Knowledgeable Team" Status

The Basic Training Program (Boot Camp) at Sumter C.I. has implemented a program of staff competition for the honor of Supervisory Management Team.

The team competition is an annual event designed by Boot Camp Program Director Major Jim Tridico to increase the knowledge of his correctional staff and further prepare them for future career opportunities. Five teams, made up of five security officers each, competed by taking a 200-question exam after completing extensive study. Test material included information from the Security Operations Manual, Chapter 33, Chapter 22A, Department Policy on Sexual Harassment in the Work Place, Institution Operating Procedures, Emergency Plans, Policy & Procedure Directives, Post Orders, Fair Labor Standards Act and the Basic Training Program Manual. Average test time was four hours.

After Regional Director Dale Landress reviewed the test results he indicated the event would be Region-wide by 1992, in an effort to assist all security staff in furthering their careers. Members of the Supervisory Management Team 1991, will be assigned tasks throughout the year that will enhance their abilities as correctional managers and give them an opportunity to have hands-on participation in the routine management of the correctional program.

PRIDE: PUBLIC-PRIVATE PARTNERSHIP AT WORK

PRIDE (Prison Rehabilitative Industries & Diversified Enterprises, Inc.) was chartered by the Florida Legislature in 1981 as a non-profit private corporation that would assume the management of the state prison industries. Self-funded, the PRIDE program functions in partnership with the Governor, the Legislature, the Department of Corrections as well as many public agencies, civic and social organizations and private industry.

PRIDE provides approximately 3,000 inmate workstations in 56 industries located within 23 correctional institutions. As a major partner, the Department of Corrections carefully screens and supplies the inmate workforce, provides orientation sessions for new members of PRIDE's civilian staff and offers assistance as PRIDE continues to expand the TIES (Training, Industry, Education and Support) program. This teamwork results in stronger linkages between education and on-the-job training, increasing the potential of successful post release job placements.

PRIDE's TIES objectives are to integrate inmate on-the-job training and education needs with targeted job placement opportunities through the support of the Department of Labor Florida Job Service, the Correctional Education School Authority, the Department of Education and the University of Florida as well as other accredited schools and agencies.

Everyday throughout PRIDE's industries, inmate workers train and work in the production of approximately 3,000 different product items such as furniture, printing, agriculture, textile and garment, general manufacturing such as food processing, and services such as heavy vehicle renovation. Inmates have a chance to learn meaningful skills that bring a sense of self-worth and monetary reward in addition to contributions to victim restitution and court ordered fees.

Through the support of this statewide public-private partnership network, inmate workers will have an opportunity to develop a work ethic in real world terms aimed at improving their potential for successful reintegration into the community.

Self-funded, the PRIDE program functions in partnership with the Governor, the Legislature, the Department of Corrections as well as many public agencies, civic and social organizations and private industry.

Gwen P. Gilmore*

Correctional Probation Officer of the Year

Gwen P. Gilmore, a Correctional Probation Supervisor II in Pensacola, was selected Correctional Probation Officer of the Year. She was selected from over 3,000 Correctional Probation Officers statewide. Gilmore is a 13 year veteran of the Department, beginning her career as an officer in Ft. Lauderdale. She has progressed through the professional rank to her current position. Her training with the Department includes training in the following areas: Youthful Offender Case Preparation/Courtroom Presentation, Instructor Techniques and Stress Awareness/Resolution.

Gilmore was the unanimous choice for CPO of the Year award by the First Circuit Nominating Committee. They cited her motivation, organizational skills and dedication to the job as reasons for her nomination, in addition to her extensive community involvement, which includes her being a former FCCD Board Member, current member of FCCD Chapter VI and her church involvement with both the choir and youth groups and serves as a sponsor for field trips and other activities for these groups.

Correctional Officer of the Year

Linda Barrentine, a Sergeant at Quincy Vocational Center and Work Camp, was selected Correctional Officer of the Year. She was selected from over 12,000 Correctional Officers statewide as the top CO in the Department. Barrentine has been with the Department since April 1975, when she started as a clerk-typist in Classification at Apalachee Correctional Institute. She was the first female officer hired at Quincy Vocational Center in 1984. In 1989, she became the first female sergeant at QVC/WC.

Barrentine's knowledge and experience in classification personnel, business/accounting methods, Policy and Procedure Directives, DC Rules and Regulations, security and local operating procedures makes her an invaluable and multi-talented employee. When QVC relocated and became QVC and Work Camp, it increased from a single building housing 48 inmates to a four dorm facility housing 296 inmates. Barrentine was instrumental in making the transition a smooth one.

Ron Kronenberger*

Central Office Employee of the Year

Ron Kronenberger, Assistant Secretary for the Office of Management and Budget, was selected Central Office Employee of the Year. He has been with the Department for 15 years, starting as a Regional Budget Officer in 1976 in Region II.

Kronenberger has had a large part in bringing on line 28,000 new beds since 1987, the largest prison construction effort in the state's history. He has been counted on repeatedly to present accurate and timely information and numbers concerning the construction of these beds, and has consistently succeeded. He was also instrumental in developing purchase procedures for construction supplies that saved both time and money.

He actively participates in both church and family activities, and has coached and refereed soccer and coached basketball. He and his family were awarded the Gainesville Women's Club's 1987 Family of the Year Award.

VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR

Mrs. Dorothy Gilliam from Pinellas County was selected Volunteer of the Year. Mrs. Gilliam has served continuously as a Citizen Volunteer at Pinellas Community Correctional Center for over twelve years providing donations, visitation and transportation for inmates to church and Bible study. She has also provided agency contact for inmates in need of rehabilitative services and counseling. As coordinator with Habitat for Humanity, she has also been instrumental in providing inmates the opportunity to purchase their own homes. Mrs. Gilliam has been a member of the Citizen Advisory Committee for Pinellas CCC and Largo CCC for the past six years. On occasion, she has even provided temporary lodging at her personal residence for female offenders following their release, affording them the opportunity to seek employment while conserving their funds on the way to becoming self-supporting. Mrs. Gilliam is also very active in a number of civic and religious organizations in Pinellas county. She is an active member of St. Mark Missionary Baptist Church. Mrs. Gilliam's colleagues sincerely believe that she is truly the personification of the "model" volunteer, giving unselfishly of herself and dedicated to the needs of inmates.

CORRECTIONAL STATISTICS

In the pages that follow, statistical information is provided on offenders in the custody of, or supervised by, the Florida Department of Corrections. This information is organized into two sections: inmate statistics and statistics on offenders under community supervision. Each section is then divided into two distinct populations: admissions during fiscal year 1990-91, and the status population as of June 30, 1991. The inmate section adds a third population — releases during fiscal year 1990-91.

The statistics reflect salient features of offenders, in particular, their demographic characteristics as well as aspects of their personal and criminal histories. It should also be noted that some data are the result of self-reporting and are subject to validity problems.

Statistical information from previous reports is available upon request from the Bureau of Planning, Research & Statistics, 2601 Blairstone Road, Tallahassee, Florida 32399-2500; telephone (904) 488-8430 (SunCom 278-8430).

This annual report departs from previous reports in the way in which it deals with missing data. In past reports, missing data were proportionately redistributed in the tables, making estimates of some of the reported numbers. This report documents the unavailable data while computing percentages on the valid cases only.

INMATE ADMISSIONS FY 1990-91

This section details the characteristics of inmates sentenced to Florida's prisons during FY 1990-91 (July 1, 1990 to June 30, 1991). The final annual admissions count of 37,631 is based on accumulated monthly figures generated at the end of the month. The total admissions of 37,184 used for statistical analysis in this section are based on data generated at the end of the fiscal year. The difference in these two figures reflects the constant updating and verifying of the inmate data base. The chart below reflects the dramatic increase in prison admissions over the past decade and the fact that there has been a decline over the past year.
