Dear Floridian:

January 2016

On behalf of the Florida Commission on the Status of Women, we are honored to present our 2014 - 2015 Report, "Your Voice Matters: A Conversation with Florida Women and Families."

For the first time ever, the Commission made the decision to travel throughout the state and engage with women to hear firsthand of the challenges they are currently facing. We hosted and supported open and informational conversations with women in our communities, with the assistance of women's commissions and organizations from across Florida.

Our goal was to provide a report on the most up-to-date and current issues women are experiencing in their communities. Our hope is that this information will be extremely beneficial to leaders and decision makers in our state.

We urge you to read this report carefully and use it as a reference and guide as it represents an account of key issues, challenges, and suggested solutions described during public discussions and an online survey sponsored by the Florida Commission on the Status of Women (FCSW) and supported by local partnering organizations.

The Florida Legislature, through Section 14.24, Florida Statutes, mandates the Commission to study the changing and developing roles of women in American society, including the implementation of recommendations to improve the development of individual potential. It is in fulfillment of our mandate and mission that the Commission has chosen to host this open dialog with the women and families of Florida.

We plan to continue this open dialogue and through a strategic plan of collaborating with a variety of organizations, continue to focus on the key issues facing women and families today. It is our desire that the information provided in this report impacts those we serve – girls and women - and acts as a catalyst to ensure their challenges and needs of are met.

Sincerely,

Acknowledgements

The Florida Commission on the Status of Women (FCSW) is grateful to the many individuals whose knowledge and dedication to Florida's women made this report possible. A special note of appreciation goes to the FCSW Annual Report Committee for their input and guidance of this project: Patti W. Hamilton, Chair, Nancy C. Acevedo, Deborah Cox-Roush, Melissa Hagan, Susanne Hebert, Gayle Jacobson, Elizabeth Pines, Laurie Pizzo, Elena Spottswood, Barbara Wall Thursty, Anne Voss, and Yvonne Fry, Commission Chair.

FCSW would also like to extend our gratitude to Governor Rick Scott, The Florida Legislature and the Office of the Attorney General for their continued support of the Commission and for making this publication possible.

We appreciate the expert guidance of Karin Brewster, Ph.D. and Robert Pennock, Ph.D., of the Florida State University Center for Demography & Population Health and Linda B. Schrader, Ph.D. of the Florida State University College of Education Dept. of Educational Leadership & Policy Studies Affiliate Faculty, Center for Demography & Population Health.

We thank the following organizations for organizing and hosting Conversations with Florida Women in their communities, and for assisting the research for this report:

- Tallahassee/Leon County Commission on the Status of Women and Girls
- Okaloosa Commission for Women
- Sarasota Commission on the Status of Women
- Palm Beach State College
- Executive Women of the Palm Beaches
- Women's Foundation of Palm Beach County
- Doral Commission on the Status of Women

Introduction

The Florida Commission on the Status of Women is a non-partisan board consisting of 22 appointed members, administratively housed in the Office of the Attorney General. The members are appointed by the Florida Governor, Attorney General, Chief Financial Officer, Commissioner of Agriculture, President of the Senate, and Speaker of the House of Representatives. Commissioners come from very diverse backgrounds and professions, and represent different geographic areas of the state. Together, the many women, and sometimes men, who have served on the Commission over the years have made it their mission to recognize and support women of all ages as they strive to achieve their fullest potential.

In the spirit of our mission to be focused on the status of Florida's women and families, the Commission hosted and supported 17 pilot informational conversations with the women in our communities during the Fall of 2014, with the assistance of women's commissions and organizations from across Florida. In addition, online and written surveys were made available for women to share their key concerns. Approximately 300 women throughout the state shared their experiences, opinions, and suggestions on challenges and solutions important to Florida families.

In addition to providing a forum for women to voice concerns about issues they are facing, the conversations were an opportunity to build trust with constituents and further build and support relationships with regional partners and women's commissions.

Outcomes

The responses overwhelmingly centered on economics and finances. While overall economic conditions have improved across the country over the last few years, the following challenges were reported most frequently:

- Safe and affordable housing
- Childcare and eldercare costs
- Low wages
- Educational costs including college tuition
- Healthcare costs
- Fewer full-time jobs with benefits such as insurance and retirement

Additionally, other challenges reported included violence against women, human trafficking and work-life balance.

It is clear that women and families throughout Florida share common concerns and challenges. There is a real need for coordinated efforts among government and service organizations, and to educate women on how to best access these resources. There is also a general lack of information and knowledge on where to find resources and services in communities statewide. Women across Florida expressed a real desire to see more women as leaders and to be a part of the solution to the challenges they face.

Priority Issues

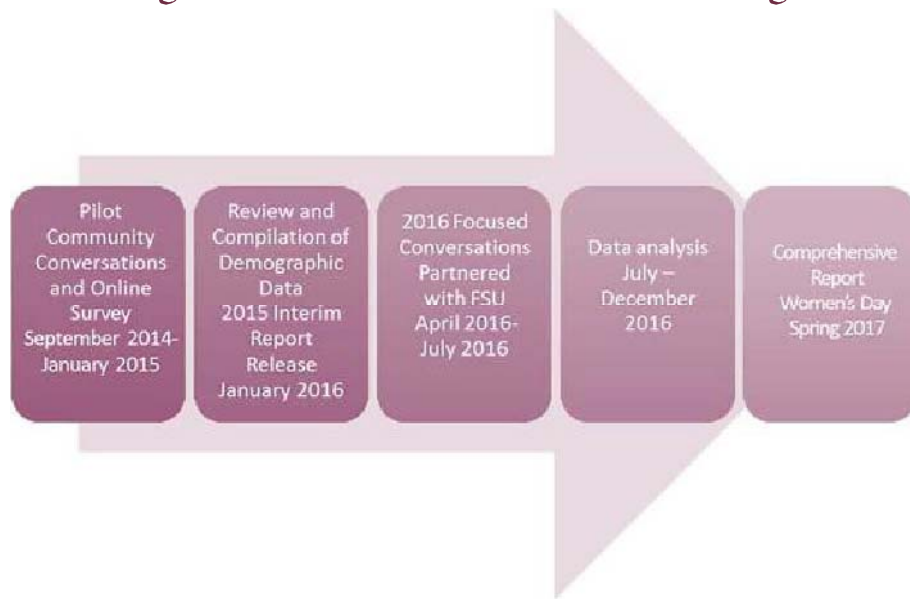

Data Report

While these pilot conversations revealed a shared need for resources addressing issues impacting Florida families, it was clear that more quantitative, research-based data was needed in order to identify priorities for future.

In 2015, the Commission partnered with The College of Social Sciences & Public Policy, Center for Demography & population Health, Applied Demographics Studio to gather and analyze significant demographic data statewide which will be used as a strategic planning guide for future development. By accounting for both perceived and data driven accounts of key challenges, the Commission will develop a plan of action for 2016 for initiatives, programs and services and facilitate collaboration between the Commission and other entities across the state.

Continuing the Conversation: Moving Forward

This report represents the first steps by the Florida Commission on the Status of Women to become the clearinghouse for data related to issues impacting women in Florida. In the future, the Commission will continue building on this research by conducting additional conversations with the guidance of our research partners at Florida State University. By continuing the “Your Voice Matters” program for years to come, the Commission recognizes there may be issues unique to specific demographic groups or geographic regions that need studies.

The Conversations are just the beginning of an on-going process to engage women and other key stakeholders from across the state to identify challenges Florida families face and begin an open dialog to discuss solutions. The input received from these dialogs will assist in informing and educating local and state leaders about issues important to women and will help build community partnerships to address these challenges.

The Florida Commission on the Status of Women values the opportunity to continue serving the State of Florida. We thank our appointing authorities who entrust the Commission with the significant responsibility of supporting women of all ages as they strive to achieve their fullest potential. We look forward to our future work with, and on behalf of, the women and girls of the State of Florida.

Demographic Data on Florida Women and Girls

Document prepared by Florida State University, Center for Demography and Population Health, Applied Demographics Studio

This document describes the status of women and girls in Florida using data from the American Community Survey (ACS), designed by the U.S. Census Bureau to provide policy-makers and the public with “vital information on a yearly basis about our nation and its people.”¹ The ACS collects up-to-date information on topics related to social and economic characteristics while the decennial census provides an official count of the U.S. population.

ACS data is available as both single-year and multi-year estimates. Single-year estimates are the most current but they are less reliable than 3-year and 5-year estimates. In addition, single-year estimates are available only for areas with a population larger than 65,000. 5-year estimates are the least current but the most reliable and they are available for all geographic levels in the state, from large metropolitan areas to small rural counties. The data used here was collected over the five-year period from January 1, 2009 to December 31, 2013 in order to provide a comprehensive picture of women and girls throughout the state, including those living in rural counties with populations of less than 65,000.

The document comprises charts and brief verbal descriptions. Charts were constructed using data from the ACS tables released by the Census Bureau. Each ACS table has an alphanumeric identifier (e.g., B01001). Tables used in this document are listed by topic and identifier in the accompanying appendix and are available for download on the Commission website www.fcswnet.net/publications.

Soundbites from Across Florida

Finance

“Regardless of which point in the lifespan girls and women are at, they often face difficult choices in order to provide for themselves and their families. We need to help the working poor.”

Housing

“We are basically making older people homeless. Many people do not have caregivers and can’t afford assisted living.”

Caregiving

“Caregiving is truly a women’s health issue and we need more support. Reliable, community based programs that offer relief are needed.”

Leadership

“Our community can benefit by more female leaders. We need more mentoring programs for leadership development.”

Families

“Broken families are unable to sustain separately. Low wages and high housing and transportation costs push single moms into constant survival mode.”

Sex, Age, Race and Ethnicity

Age of Florida Women, 2009-2013

Over 9.7 million women and girls lived in Florida between 2009 and 2013. This bar chart illustrates their distribution by 5-year age groups. The three age groups with the largest share of the female population in Florida are 45 to 49, 50 to 54, and 55 to 59. As members of these age groups (cohorts) continue to age over the next three decades, there will be larger numbers of elderly women in Florida who will require increased medical and social services.

Source: Table B01001

Florida Population Pyramid, 2009-2013

This chart is called a “population pyramid.” The bottom axis shows population counts and the left-side axis shows five-year age groups. The chart shows the distribution of women (in green) and men (in blue) across age groups. Women in Florida are, on average, older than men. The dashed lines indicate the median age for each group. The median is the midpoint—the age that cuts each distribution in half. Among women, that age is a bit over 42 years and among men, the median is just under 40.

Race of Florida Women, 2009-2013

■ White ■ African American ■ Asian ■ Some Other Race ■ Two or More Races

Persons included in the ACS are asked to describe their race; they may choose a single race or two or more races (multiracial). Only a small share (2%) of women identified as multiracial. The majority of Florida women identify as white (76%, 7.4 million), followed by African American (16%, 1.5 million). The category “some other race” includes women who identify as American Indian and Alaska Native (~28,000) or Hawaiian Native and Other Pacific Islander (~5,700), as well as women who identify with a single race other than White, African American, or Asian.

Educational attainment is illustrated for Hispanic Florida women over the age of 25. There are over 1.4 million Hispanic women over the age of 25 in Florida. ~329,000 Hispanic women have less than a high school diploma, ~402,000 graduated from high school, ~387,000 have some college education or an associate’s degree, and 317,000 have a bachelor’s degree or higher.

Households

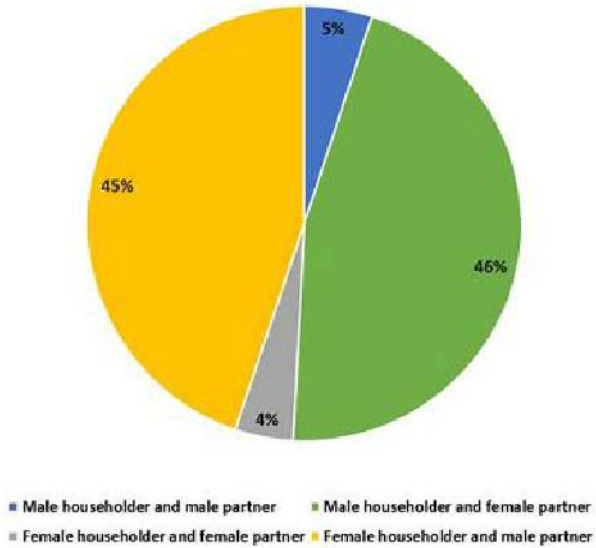

Florida Household Types, 2009-2013

There are over 7.1 million households in Florida. The Census Bureau distinguishes two types of households based on the relationships of household members to the “householder” (defined below). Family households are those in which all household members are related to the householder by marriage, birth, or adoption. Nonfamily households include those in which the householder lives alone or in which members are not related by marriage, birth, or adoption. The majority of households in Florida are either married-couple families (47%, 3.3 million) or nonfamily households (35%, 2.5 million). Female-headed households make up 13% (~944,000) of households and male-headed households make up 5% (~320,000).

Source: Table B11001

Florida Unmarried-Partner Households, 2009-2013

The Census defines a householder as “the person, or one of the people, in whose name the home is owned, being bought, or rented.”² 6% (~440,000) of all Florida households are unmarried-partner households. Of unmarried-partner households, the majority are male householders with a female partner (46%, ~201,000) or female householders with a male partner (45%, ~197,000). Female-headed households with a female partner comprise 4% (~19,000) of households and male-headed households with a male partner comprise 5% (~22,000).

Employment

Class of Worker for Employed Florida Women, 2009-2013

In Florida, over 3.9 million women over the age of 16 are employed. Most (71%, 2.8 million) are private for-profit wage and salary workers. Roughly equal shares are private not-for-profit wage and salary workers (9%, ~341,000) or local government workers (9%, ~373,000). The remainder are self-employed (5%, ~202,000) or employed by the state (4%, ~153,000) or federal (2%, ~72,000) governments. Less than 1% (~5,900) are unpaid family workers.

Income and Earnings

Industry for Employed Florida Women, 2009-2013

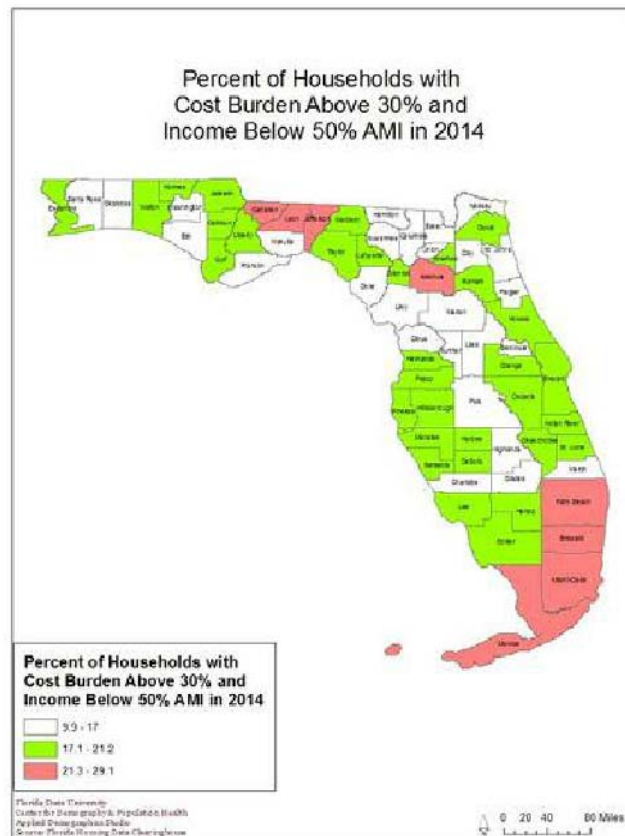

This chart shows the distribution across industries of the 3.9 million Florida women, ages 16 and over, who are employed. The largest sector is education/health care, which employs 1.3 million women in educational services, health care, and social assistance. The second and third largest employers of Florida women are retail trade and arts/recreation.

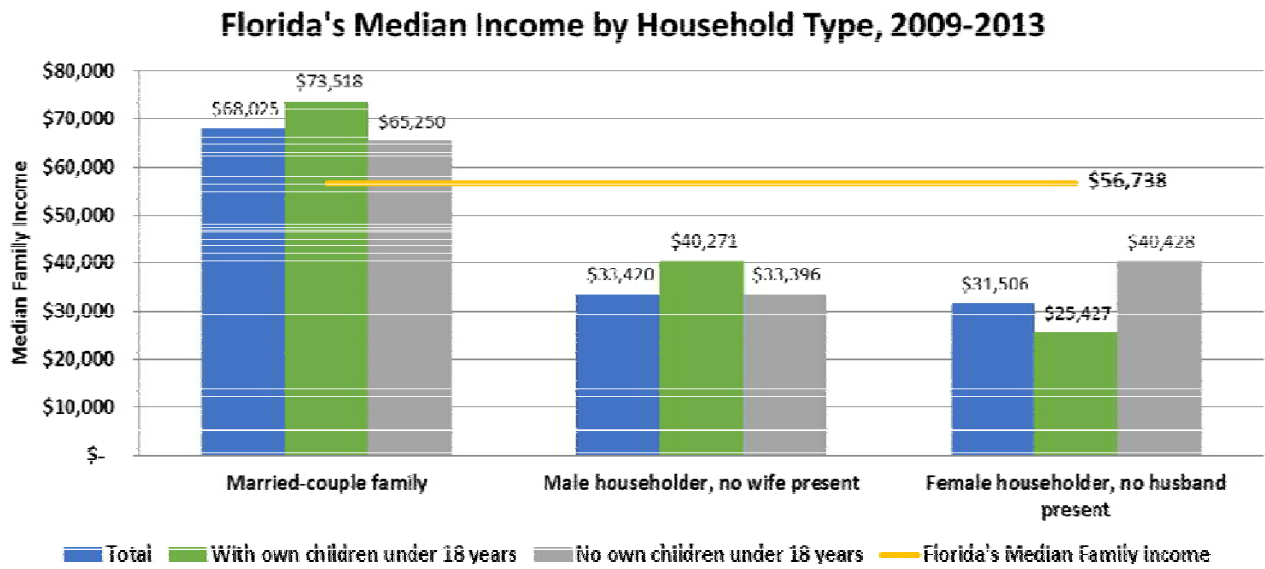

Median Earnings by Industry for Employed Florida Women, 2009-2013

This bar chart shows median annual earnings by industry for employed Florida women ages 16 and over; the green line indicates median earnings across industries. The industry that employs the largest share of Florida women, education/health care, has earnings above the median. Overall, however, those industries in which earnings are higher (e.g., public administration) employ relatively few women.

Source: Table B24032

This chart shows the median income in Florida by household type and presence of children. The yellow line indicates the median income for all Florida households. Median income is higher for married-couple households than for female- or male-headed households. It's not surprising that married-couple households in Florida are financially better-off than households headed by a single woman or man; after all, two earners typically are better than one. The median household income for married couples with children is much higher than the Florida median. In contrast, the median income for single mothers with children is much lower than the Florida median.

*Florida Commission on the Status of Women
2014 - 2015 Report*

Mission

The Florida Commission on the Status of Women recognizes and supports women of all ages as they strive to achieve their fullest potential.

About the Commission

The Florida Commission on the Status of Women (FCSW) is established in the office of the Florida Attorney General, and consists of 22 members. The Governor, Speaker of the House of Representatives, President of the Senate, Chief Financial Officer, Attorney General and Commissioner of Agriculture each appoint members to the Commission. Each member serves for a term of four years. No member may serve more than eight consecutive years.

Mandate

As required by Section 14.24, Florida Statutes, the Commission is mandated to study and make recommendations to the Governor, Attorney General, Chief Financial Officer, Commissioner of Agriculture and Legislature on issues affecting women. These recommendations are presented in the form of an annual report, which is distributed during the first quarter of each year. Topics may include, but are not limited to:

- socioeconomic factors influencing the status of women;
- the development of individual potential;
- the encouragement of women to utilize their capabilities and assume leadership roles;
- the coordination of efforts of numerous organizations interested in the welfare of women;
- the identification and recognition of contributions made by women to the community, state and nation; and
- the implementation of recommendations to improve working conditions, financial security, and legal status of both sexes.

2014—2015 FCSW Year in Review

The Florida Commission on the Status of Women engages in numerous activities each year in order to empower women of the State of Florida to achieve their fullest potential. Much of the work of the Commission takes place through its committees. The standing committees of the Commission include: Annual Report, Awards and Recognition, Bylaws, Executive, Finance and Budget, Public Outreach, Public Policy, and the Women's Hall of Fame Committees. Committees meet on a regular schedule by teleconference to coordinate the work of the Commission. Following is a diary highlighting many of the Commission events and accomplishments.

The Commission held its first annual Florida Women's day at the Capitol: Uniting to Make an Impact on March 12, 2014. This daylong event was dedicated to informing and motivating women to engage in the legislative process. Attendees gained a better understanding of the process and the tools needed to be leaders on policy changes impacting women. The day included opportunities to learn the basics of how the Florida Legislature works and join an interactive session on the public hearing process where attendees learned tips for how to testify on a bill.

2014 Florida Women's Hall of Fame

The day concluded with the induction ceremony for the Florida Women's Hall of Fame, which honored three outstanding women from the state of Florida: Dottie Berger MacKinnon, Sheriff Susan Benton, and Louise Jones Gopher.

A successful and productive first quarterly meeting was held on March 13, 2014, at the Tallahassee Community College Capitol Center. The Commission also held its annual election of officers, who were sworn in by Attorney General Pam Bondi with a ceremony during the meeting.

The Commission had the honor of participating in a number of exciting and informative conferences in the spring, including the Women's Leadership Conference at the University of Florida, the Women's History Month Celebration at Tallahassee Community College and the Speaking of Women's Health Conference in Bradenton. These conferences offered not only a wealth of new information, but an opportunity to educate the public and inform them about the important work of the Commission.

The 2014 Summary of Florida Laws Affecting Women and Families was published by the FCSW Public Policy Committee. This report is an annual publication designed to encourage women from across the state to become educated about the legislative process and new laws that affect Florida's families.

The Commission held its second meeting of the year in Sarasota, Florida on July 23, 2014 in conjunction with the 44th Annual NACW Conference and Business Meeting. The Commission served as the conference host, and Anila Jain, M.D., MBA and Betty Schoenbaum served as honorary conference co-chairs. Notable speakers included State Representative Kathleen Passidomo, Jessica Rivelli of Working Women, Blair Bloomston of game on Nation, bestselling author Fawn Germer, and humorist Lynn McDonald. The FCSW received an achievement award for its work on Florida Women's Day at the Capitol: Uniting to Make an Impact, and FCSW Assistant Director Michele Manning was elected to serve as treasurer on the NACW Board of Directors.

Also at the NACW Conference and Business Meeting, the FCSW Florida Achievement Awards were presented to 13 outstanding women from throughout the state of Florida during a special awards ceremony and luncheon on Thursday, July 24, 2014. The 13 honorees included Katherine M. Foster of Ft. Walton Beach, Annie Gainous Thompson of Tallahassee, Michelle Chira Carlton of Winter Park, Jessica Parker Malchow of Oviedo, Dotti Groover-Skipper of Tampa, Alice C. O'Reilly of Lakeland, Suzanne T. Graham of Punta Gorda, Julia Perry of Moore Haven, Elmira L. Leto of Key West, Michele M. Merrell of Ft. Lauderdale, Tiffany A. Albury of Gainesville, Nupur Mathur of Bradenton, and Avalon Theisen of Tampa. In addition to the Achievement Award from the Commission, each received a congratulatory letter from Governor Rick Scott. The awards ceremony included a very special Keynote address by Betty Schoenbaum entitled "The Joy of Giving is the Joy of Living".

August 26 was Women's Equality Day - the anniversary of the day that, 94 years ago in 1920, the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution was ratified, granting women the right to vote. The Florida Commission on the Status of Women was pleased to participate in the Sarasota and Manatee Commissions on the Status of Women's Annual Women's Equity Luncheon on Saturday, July 26, 2014 at the Hyatt Regency Sarasota. Nearly 500 women were in attendance at the celebration. The keynote speaker was Sally Matson, who portrayed Susan B. Anthony the Invincible! in a captivating monologue.

2014 FCSW Florida Achievement Awards

Following the third quarterly meeting on October 10, 2014 at the Chamber of Commerce of the Palm Beaches in West Palm Beach, the Commission and the National Women's Hall of Fame committee co-hosted a reception and panel discussion entitled "Celebrating Great Women of Florida" at the Richard and Pat Johnson Palm Beach County History Museum. The panel explored the insights and outlook of the impact of women in the community and nation in the areas of education, health and business. Panelists included Jeri Muoio, Mayor of the City of West Palm Beach; Dr. Antonia Coello Novello, Executive Director of Public Health Policy at Florida Hospital, 14th U.S. Surgeon General, and a 1994 inductee into the National Women's Hall of Fame; and Louise Jones Gopher of the Seminole Tribe of Florida and a 2014 inductee into the Florida Women's Hall of Fame.

Women's Equality Day Celebration

During the fourth quarterly meeting, the commissioners unveiled the new FCSW logo during a presentation at the Florida Cabinet meeting on November 12, 2014. In the spring, the Commission announced the launch of its redesigned website, www.fcsw.net, to further our goal of connecting with women, families, organizations and communities throughout Florida.

During 2014 and 2015, members of the Commission along with the assistance of women's commissions and organizations in communities across Florida hosted open and informational conversations with women throughout the fall and winter. Women throughout the state shared their experiences, opinions, and suggestions on challenges and solutions important to Florida families.

The Commission hosted the 2nd Annual Women's Day at the Capitol on March 24th, 2015. This exciting day has state and national leaders coming to engage women on the issues and processes affecting women in our state. The economy, jobs, education, women's resources, human trafficking, and affordable housing as well as legislative updates were just a few of the topics of the daylong conference. The 2015 Florida Women's Hall of Fame Induction concluded the day on March 24th celebrating the amazing women from around the state. This very special ceremony honored Mary Lee Nunnally Farrior, Evelyn C. Keiser, and Charlotte Edwards Maguire, M.D.

The Florida Commission on the Status of Women joined the Hillsborough County Commission on the Status of Women, the Hillsborough County Board of County Commissioners, and the Tampa City Council in a special event to present a proclamation recognizing Tuesday, April 14, 2015 as Equal Pay Day. Equal Pay Day is the day when citizens around the country recognize the wage gap between working women and men.

On September 10, 2015, the Commission honored the following outstanding women with a FCSW Florida Achievement Award for their work in improving the lives of women and families in their communities:

- Mary Jane Arrington of Kissimmee
- Carolyn Fennell of Orlando
- Kathleen Johnson of Tallahassee
- Kimberly Leach Johnson of Naples
- Madison Alyse Keene of Plant City
- Liz Kennedy of Tampa
- Natalie King of Gainesville
- Caridad E. Lee of Gainesville
- Mindy Murphy of Tampa
- Ghazala Salam of Weston
- Linda Washington-Brown of Hialeah
- Rachel Weinbren of Tampa

The awards were presented during a special luncheon in conjunction with the Commission's third quarterly meeting at the Alford Inn in Winter Park, FL.

The Commission's committees continued their work over the summer with strategic planning to continue important annual work and to launch innovative new programs. The FCSW Public Policy was pleased to publish the annual 2015 Summary of Florida Laws Affecting Women and Families and continued planning for Women's Day at the Capitol.

The Public Outreach Committee hosted a Statewide Commission Conference Call on October 20, offering a great opportunity for sharing the best practices of Commissions from across the state as well as to seek solutions to challenges.

The Florida Women's Hall of Fame Committee launched its first ever Florida Women's History Essay Contest in order to allow students in grades 6 – 9 gain a more relevant appreciation of women's roles in history, and engage young minds of women's role in the future. Winning essayists will be awarded prizes and recognized at a special ceremony at the 3rd Annual Florida Women's Day at the Capitol in Tallahassee on January 28, 2016.

The fourth quarterly meeting was held in November in Destin, Florida. Committee planning meetings were held, and the Commission developed a research partnership with the Center for Demography & Population Health at Florida State University. The collaboration will work to further research into the challenges facing Florida's women and families in the future.

The year concluded in December with another visit with the Florida Cabinet to provide an update on the Commission's activities and upcoming events.

Florida Women's Hall of Fame

The Florida Women's Hall of Fame began in 1982 under the aegis of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women. A total of 27 women were selected as members of the Hall in 1982, 1984 and 1986. In 1992, legislation was passed that created a permanent Florida Women's Hall of Fame. Since 1993, up to three women have been inducted into the Hall annually pursuant to Section 265.001, Florida Statutes. Nominations to the Hall may be made between April 1 and July 15 of each year.

To obtain a nomination form or review member biographies, visit the Commission's web site at www.fcsw.net or contact the office at 850-414-3300. The Commission appreciates the public input that assists in honoring meritorious women and in educating citizens on the significant and varied accomplishments of women in Florida's history.

2014 - 2015 FCSW Commissioners

NANCY C. ACEVEDO

Commissioner Nancy C. Acevedo of Winter Springs was recently appointed to the Commission by Governor Rick Scott. Commissioner Acevedo is currently a Crime Analyst III with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office Domestic Security Division (DSD). She is a graduate of the University of Puerto Rico and the Inter-American University, and holds a Ph.D. in Education.

In 2014 she was selected as part of the SCSO Recruitment Team. The team is responsible for sourcing, recruiting, and assisting with screening qualified applicants for a variety of positions within the SCSO organization. In 2011 she was re-elected to serve as secretary to the FINDER/UCF/Law Enforcement Data Sharing Consortium. In 2011, she was awarded the "Eagle Lifetime Achievement Award" by the Hispanic Women Chamber of Commerce for her lifetime dedication and contributions to the Hispanic community. Commissioner Acevedo currently serves as Master Chaplain for the Christian Stars Hispanic Ministry in Central Florida. In 2010 she was selected as one of the "Most Influential Hispanic Women" in Central Florida by the National Hispanic Achievers in Florida. In 2009, she was re-appointed to the Seminole County Sheriff (SCSO) Citizens Advisory Council. In 2007 she graduated from the SCSO Community Law Enforcement Academy. In 2004 she was appointed to the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council, and in 2006 she received a Presidential appointment to the US Small Business Administration National Advisory Board. She has been a community/political activist in the Central Florida area for the last 15 years.

She is the former President of the Florida Crime Intelligence Analyst Association (FCIAA), an active member of the International Association of Crime Analysts (IACA) and the International Association of Law Enforcement Intelligence Analysts (IALEIA) and Women in Federal Government (WIFLE). In 2012, she became chaplain for the Seminole County Sheriff Office and current serves as Secretary/Treasurer for the Corp.

Recently, Commissioner Acevedo was nominated to receive the Florida Law Enforcement Property Recovery Unit's Crime Analyst of the Year Award for 2015. Her hard work and partnerships have had a significant, positive impact within the pawn and property recovery community. In her thirteen years at the Seminole County Sheriff's Office she has worked to develop pawn and property recovery procedures and systems. The most significant accomplishment has been her collaborative work on the Pawn Web and FINDER systems. She facilitated all communication between the SCSO/IT department and FINDER to ensure that the transition was successful and the program's features would be helpful for investigations. This resulted in improving the availability of transmitted data, leading to the identification and recovery of stolen property. She was also instrumental in the creation of legislation and submission of the Seminole County Flea Market Ordinance in an effort to decrease the amount of illegal activity occurring within Flea Markets. Acevedo's work on developing and improving systems, training and professional network has shaped the pawn and property community of today.
