FLORIDA CHILDREN AND YOUTH CABINET

In 2007, the Florida Legislature directed all state agencies and programs that touch the lives of children and youth to work in collaboration, emphasizing on providing a continuum of services that benefit children from prenatal to their transition into adulthood. To meet this request, Florida created and signed into the law the Florida Children and Youth Cabinet (Cabinet). The Cabinet is codified in section 402.56, Florida Statutes, and charged with ensuring the public policy of the state relating to children and youth is best aligned for promoting interdepartmental collaboration in program implementation. This collaboration helps to ensure that services designed for children and youth are planned, managed, and delivered in a holistic and integrated manner to improve the self-sufficiency, safety, economic stability, health, and quality of life of children across Florida.

Administrative Support and Service

The Department of Children and Families (DCF) is tasked with providing administrative support and services to the Cabinet, as identified in section 402.56, Florida Statutes, and provides the Executive Director to serve as the Cabinet's liaison. The Executive Director reports directly to the Assistant Secretary of DCF's Child Welfare and the Cabinet Chair.

The Governor's Office of Adoption and Child Protection staff provides administrative and fiscal support to the Executive Director by noticing Cabinet and committee meetings and coordinating travel requests and approvals.

FIRST QUARTERLY MEETING

The first Children and Youth Cabinet meeting was held on March 25th at the Florida Capitol.

Members began by providing brief legislative updates, highlighting their respective agencies' needs and priorities.

Secretary Chad Poppell, Department of Children and Families (DCF) outlined Title IV-E waiver changes and funding. He described policy and procedural changes at DCF and addressed public records exemption for foster parent names to protect their identities (for safety reasons).

Secretary Simone Marstiller, Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) provided an update on expanding prevention and diversion programs and increasing quality oversight of residential providers.

Director Barbara Palmer, Agency for Persons with Disabilities (APD) described a $40 million budget proposal to assist with transitioning individuals off the waitlist for the Waiver Program and helping them begin to receive services.

Director Rodney MacKinnon, Office of Early Learning (OEL) addressed a budget request for authority to spend School Readiness Program federal funds awarded to OEL to help reduce the waiting list for services.

Director Alan Abramowitz, Florida Guardian ad Litem Program shared a new measure through the Certification Board to improve advocacy efforts. He also mentioned the Regis Little Act, which ensures vulnerable foster youth have a guardian in place at age 18 to protect children with special needs.

Chancellor Jacob Oliva, Department of Education (DOE) praised Governor DeSantis and the State of Florida for proposing the increase in funding to improve security within schools, provide scholarships, and expand onsite job training for teachers and staff.

Superintendent Sam Himmel, Citrus County Schools addressed the topic of using threat assessments on students and appropriate next steps for engaging parents in children’s needs, if identified.

Director Zack Gibson, Governor’s Office of Adoption and Child Protection provided an update on the Interagency Agreement that addresses the state’s efforts to integrate and coordinate services for children served by more than one agency, which was signed by Cabinet members and multiple state and governmental entities.

These updates were followed by a presentation from the Florida Dental Association (FDA). President, Dr. Jolene Paramore, shared the importance of children’s dental health, explaining that tooth decay was the leading childhood disease. She also mentioned the FDA’s “Give Kids a Smile” events, which offer free dental care for children. APD Director Barbara Palmer noted how important these events are, especially for children with developmental disabilities.

The final agenda item was a joint presentation from Whole Child Leon, an organization dedicated to connecting parents and caregivers with needed services, and the Tallahassee Pediatric Behavioral Health Center (TPBHC), which focuses on improving children’s mental health and wellbeing. Whole Child Leon Executive Director Courtney Atkins and Alexis Rojas, Executive Director of TPBHC, discussed their ongoing partnership: Whole Child Leon receives grant funding from TPBHC to conduct biopsychosocial evaluations and psychoeducation with children referred by local pediatricians or the Early Learning Coalition.

CHANGE IN LEADERSHIP

Governor Ron DeSantis Appoints First Lady Casey DeSantis as Chair of the Florida Children and Youth Cabinet.

In April 2019, while highlighting Child Abuse Prevention Month, Governor DeSantis appointed the First Lady to serve as the Chair of the Florida Children and Youth Cabinet. As a mother and fearless advocate for all children, this appointment has given the First Lady an opportunity to use her voice in a meaningful way and bring attention to the issues impacting children and families across the state.

“I’m honored to serve the people of Florida in this new capacity and look forward to working with child advocates across the state to better the lives of some of the most vulnerable citizens of our society. Protecting our children from harm and making sure that every child in Florida has the opportunity to succeed and pursue the American Dream is a top priority of this administration.”

— First Lady Casey DeSantis, April 2019

SECOND QUARTERLY MEETING

The Florida Children and Youth Cabinet's second meeting took place on August 23rd at the Orange County Commission Chambers in Orlando.

The meeting began with Orange County Mayor Jerry Demings, who addressed the opioid epidemic from both professional and personal perspectives. Following his moving testimony, the Cabinet heard from three young people who shared stories about challenges they have faced and how they overcame adversity.

Timmy Lee from Pasco County spoke about growing up in a bad environment and spending time in foster care, as well as the near destruction of his family's home from a house fire. Despite those obstacles, he turned his situation around through hard work and perseverance. Today, he is a youth leader and advocate who works to make a positive difference in his local community.

Hazel Montoya from Orange County is a 17-year-old youth leader at the Pace Center for Girls in Orange County.

She described being stuck in a hopeless situation prior to Pace, dealing with depression, surrounded by the wrong crowd, and struggling to survive. Since joining Pace, she has found her passion and uses her voice to help others serving on the Girls Leadership Council. Her goal is to attend college and to become a pediatrician.

Javonta Brown from Broward County talked about how he was placed in more than eight foster homes, from Tallahassee to Jacksonville, within a two-year period, which caused him to fall behind academically. However, Javonta refused to let his traumatic childhood define the rest of his life, and now, he attends Tallahassee Community College where he is majoring in political science, and he aspires to become a Supreme Court Justice.

The inspiring stories from these young people set the tone for the remainder of the meeting and the important topics members discussed.

As Chair of the Technology Workgroup, Victoria Zepp shared that the technology workgroup was instrumental in securing an additional $20 million in federal grants for Florida and how this accomplishment was recognized nationally as the first of its kind.

Zack Gibson then provided an update on the Cabinet's Interagency Agreement, which addresses the state's efforts to integrate and coordinate services for children provided by multiple agencies. He noted that, as the agreement is set to be renewed in 2022, he will work with his community-level contacts to amend it and identify opportunities for enhancement.

Supreme Court Justice Robert Luck contributed to these remarks by speaking about the One Child, One Family program, an evidence-based program that strives to identify all cases involving one family and bring them before one judge. The program requires coordination of services when a child is involved with multiple agencies.

Justice Luck also described an Early Childhood Courts bill (to be recognized like Drug Courts and Veterans Courts) that supports the idea that, when children in the dependency system are properly resourced, they have quicker access to services that deter them from repeat offenses or re-entering back into the system.

Alan Abramowitz reiterated the importance of Early Childhood Courts and noted the statewide success resulting from using this model.

Having heard the members' updates and participating in a meaningful discussion about collective goals, the Chair closed the meeting with a call for continued communication and collaboration.

Third

QUARTERLY MEETING

During the third meeting of the Children and Youth Cabinet, members began to determine the Cabinet's specific direction – youth suicide prevention.

The Chair began the meeting by discussing her takeaways from the many Hope for Healing Florida listening sessions that she participated in recently. During one, she learned that death by suicide is the eighth leading cause of death among all age groups in Florida, and even more alarming, it is the fourth leading cause of death among 5 to 14-year-olds and the third leading cause of death among 15 to 24-year-olds. While these statistics are devastating, she was optimistic about the Cabinet's ability to make a difference. She knew members had the capacity to identify and address gaps in critical resources and services.

Following her remarks, Dr. Thomas Joiner, a renowned expert on suicide prevention and a professor of psychology at Florida State University, talked about the need for more immediate care when patients are discharged from psychiatric facilities and/or were Baker Acted for suicide attempts.

Two devoted mothers then proceeded to share their personal connection to youth suicide. Mary Bowers spoke of how she lost her daughter to suicide six years ago, which spurred her to begin working for the National Alliance on Mental Illness. Anita Whitney Davis, a Parent Liaison at the Governors Charter Academy in Tallahassee, shared how her son attempted suicide earlier in the year but is now successfully recovering.

After thanking these women for their courage, the Chair invited members to update the rest of the Cabinet on their respective agencies' efforts to support families struggling with youth mental health challenges or possible suicide ideation.

Rodney Moore, Assistant Secretary of Substance Abuse and Mental Health at the Department of Children and Families, provided an update on the Florida Suicide Prevention Coordinating Council's five-year plan. He noted that the plan is currently being reviewed and will be presented to Secretary Chad Poppell in June 2020.

To close, the Chair directed members to focus on youth suicide prevention. She asked them to come to the next meeting with recommendations of how their agencies could offer or expand youth suicide prevention resources and, perhaps even more importantly, communicate the availability of these resources to help combat the epidemic.

Fourth

QUARTERLY MEETING

During the fourth meeting, the Chair emphasized the value of mentorship in preventing youth suicide. A video was shown highlighting the Governor's experience as a mentor during his service in the U.S. Navy. Following the video, the Chair invited speakers to share their mentorship experiences.

At the meeting, LaSharonté Williams-Potts explained that she has mentored 22 children as a Guardian ad Litem, and she continues to volunteer in her current position as an attorney for the Florida Department of Agriculture. She received a well-deserved standing ovation at the conclusion of her remarks.

The Volunteer Services Director at Volunteer Florida, Jovita Woodrich, then introduced the agency's new online platform, which connects Floridians with volunteer opportunities. She talked about how Volunteer Connect can be used to promote mentorship programs and strongly encouraged the Cabinet to consider utilizing it moving forward.

Before closing the meeting, the Chair asked Rodney Moore, Assistant Secretary of Substance Abuse and Mental Health at the Department of Children and Families, to provide another update on the Suicide Prevention Coordinating Council's five-year plan. He noted that the Council met in September and created an additional committee that includes 12 state agencies, bolstering efforts to reduce the increasing rate of suicide in Florida.

The Chair provided final remarks, noting that the Cabinet is in a unique position to offer innovative solutions to address the issue of youth suicide, including strong mentorship programs that can increase the scale and scope of support.

- (a) All budget requests submitted by the office, the department, the Department of Health, the Department of Education, the Department of Juvenile Justice, the Department of Corrections, the Agency for Persons with Disabilities, or any other agency to the Legislature for funding of efforts for the promotion of adoption, support of adoptive families, and prevention of child abuse, abandonment, and neglect shall be based on the state plan developed pursuant to this section.
- (b) The office and the other agencies and organizations listed in paragraph (10)(a) shall readdress the state plan and make necessary revisions every 5 years, at a minimum.

Such revisions shall be submitted to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate no later than June 30 of each year divisible by 5. At least biennially, the office shall review the state plan and make any necessary revisions based on changing needs and program evaluation results. An annual progress report shall be submitted to update the state plan in the years between the 5-year intervals.
