Problem-Solving Courts Report

BACKGROUND

Section 43.51, Florida Statutes, requires the Office of the State Courts Administrator (OSCA) to provide an annual report on problem-solving courts to the Legislature and sets forth specific requirements for reporting.

Section 43.51, Florida Statutes

43.51 Problem-solving court reports.

(1) The Office of the State Courts Administrator shall provide an annual report to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives which details the number of participants in each problem-solving court for each fiscal year the court has been operating and the types of services provided, identifies each source of funding for each court during each fiscal year, and provides information on the performance of each court based upon outcome measures established by the courts.

(2) For purposes of this section, the term "problem-solving court" includes, but is not limited to, a drug court pursuant to s. 397.334, s. 948.01, s. 948.06, s. 948.08, s. 948.16, or s. 948.20; a veterans treatment court program pursuant to s. 394.47891, s. 948.08, s. 948.16, or s. 948.21; a mental health court program pursuant to s. 394.47892, s. 948.01, s. 948.06, s. 948.08, or s. 948.16; a community court pursuant to s. 948.081; or a delinquency pretrial intervention court program pursuant to s. 985.345.

Annual Report Requirements

The report prescribed by section 43.51, F.S, requires the following:

1. Number of participants in each problem-solving court for each fiscal year the court has been operating;
2. Types of services provided;
3. Each source of funding for each court during each fiscal year; and
4. Information on the performance of each court based upon outcome measures established by the courts.

This report contains a brief narrative on each of the four required elements, followed by six tables that contain data related to each element, as well as four appendices with historical and other problem-solving court information.

OVERVIEW AND DEVELOPMENTS

Problem-solving courts address the root causes of justice system involvement through specialized dockets, multidisciplinary teams, and a non-adversarial approach. Offering evidence-based treatment, judicial supervision, and accountability, problem-solving courts provide individualized interventions for participants, thereby improving public safety, reducing recidivism, restoring lives, and promoting confidence and satisfaction with the justice system.¹

The first problem-solving court in the United States, an adult drug court, was created in 1989 in Miami-Dade County in response to the crack cocaine epidemic. Since that time, drug courts have expanded geographically with 52 adult drug courts currently operating in Florida. Drug courts have also expanded in scope as juvenile drug courts and dependency drug courts arose to address more specific populations. As drug court implementation continued, other types of problem-solving courts evolved, such as mental health courts, DUI courts, veterans courts, and early childhood courts. Currently, more than 183 problem-solving courts are in operation across the state. Appendix D contains a map of Florida's more commonly known problem-solving courts, key findings from national research, and the core components of each type of problem-solving court.

The OSCA, through its Office of Problem-Solving Courts and Office of Family Courts, supports the training, technical assistance, and general operational needs of the majority of Florida's problem-solving courts (adult drug courts, juvenile drug courts, dependency drug courts, veterans courts, mental health courts, and early childhood courts). The OSCA manages two case management platforms—the Florida Drug Court Case Management System (FDCCMS) and the Florida Dependency Court Information System (FDCIS)—that support these problem-solving courts. These systems streamline data collection and entry and help problem-solving court judges and case managers manage their caseloads efficiently. The FDCCMS currently supports 110 problem-solving courts with approximately 800 user accounts. The FDCIS currently supports 32 early childhood courts. Currently, the OSCA does not provide statewide support to or collect data for community courts, which typically address the needs of at-large, homeless, petty crime, and municipal ordinance offenders.

Historically, the Legislature provided recurring and/or non-recurring funding for certain problem-solving courts. However, in 2018, the Legislature appropriated recurring general revenue funds in one special category for problem-solving courts. As part of this funding approach, the Legislature authorized the Trial Court Budget Commission (TCBC) to allocate most of the problem-solving court funding. Under the special category appropriation, problem-solving courts received funding using an application process. As part of its allocation strategy, the TCBC prioritized allocations for problem-solving court types that have best practice standards approved by the Florida Supreme Court or under development and statewide technology and infrastructure available to ensure program performance can be measured. An overall goal of the TCBC was to provide equity in funding across the judicial circuits. In FY 2021-22, the TCBC decided to provide circuits flexibility to allocate the total amount of recurring funds received by problem-solving courts in the circuit to any problem-solving court in need of funding, contingent upon final approval by the TCBC. All problem-solving courts with approved allocations must comply with the funding guidelines adopted by the TCBC to govern expenditures under the special category appropriation.

Not all problem-solving courts, however, receive state funding from the problem-solving court appropriation. Approximately 88 of Florida's more than 180 problem-solving courts received state funding in FY 2022-23. This fact is reflective of the history and development of problem-solving courts—as problem-solving courts started principally as initiatives in local jurisdictions and often received only county funding. In addition, problem-solving courts rely on federal funding and other state funding primarily for substance use and mental health treatment. Problem-solving courts may be funded by a single source or may employ multiple funding sources.

Problem-solving court initiatives in progress include the development of best practice standards and guidelines for certain problem-solving courts, a certification program, and enhanced performance measurement capability. The Florida Supreme Court approved adult drug court, dependency drug court, early childhood court, mental health court, and veterans court best practices. DUI court and juvenile drug court best practices are currently under development by the Steering Committee on Problem-Solving Courts (Steering Committee). The Steering Committee developed a problem-solving court certification program, which was recently approved by the Florida Supreme Court and will be implemented in 2024.

Problem-solving courts receiving funding from the problem-solving court appropriation will be required to report participant-level data using the FDCCMS or the FDCIS unless a different and compatible system is approved. Data reporting requirements for drug courts, early childhood courts, mental health courts, and veterans courts were approved by the Problem-Solving Court Advisory Group and the Steering Committee in June 2019. The OSCA has implemented enhancements needed to the FDCCMS and the FDCIS to capture all required data and is in the process of finalizing the reporting requirements considering these enhancements. The process for final approval of the data reporting requirements is currently being developed.

This report contains certain data the OSCA has been collecting directly from the problem-solving courts since 2008,² some of which was collected specifically in response to the requirements of this annual report. There are certain areas of this report in which data are not complete due to limited reporting capabilities. For instance, because their treatment provider was the victim of a cyber-attack, the Brevard County misdemeanor mental health court was unable to provide the number of admissions for calendar year 2021 or participants served for FY 2021-22. Although the statute prescribes that the information should be addressed by fiscal year, certain historical data are structured by calendar year. The OSCA remedied this reporting issue subsequent to the Legislature's adoption of the requirement to ensure future compliance.

Performance measures are also limited due to a lack of capacity at the statewide level to track outcome measures. However, this report offers a variety of performance measures and outcome data that have been reported by the problem-solving courts from local data systems, the FDCCMS, and/or independent evaluations conducted on individual programs.

I. NUMBER OF PARTICIPANTS BY FISCAL YEAR FOR EACH YEAR THE PROBLEM-SOLVING COURT HAS BEEN OPERATING

The OSCA has historically collected the number of problem-solving court participant admissions by calendar year for adult drug courts, dependency drug courts, juvenile drug courts, and DUI courts. The OSCA began collecting the number of participant admissions for veterans courts in 2015, mental health courts in 2016, the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit's Marchman Act drug court in 2018, and the Eleventh Judicial Circuit's domestic violence drug court and domestic violence mental health court in 2018. Table 1 includes the number of participant admissions for calendar year 2022. Appendix A contains the number of participant admissions for calendar years 2008 through 2021, where available. Table 1 and Appendix A also include the implementation date for each problem-solving court and a closure date if a particular problem-solving court closed, if the date is known.

In 2020, OSCA staff began collecting the number of participants served by fiscal year beginning with FY 2019-20 to include in this report. Table 2 includes updated data for FY 2022-23 for all drug courts, mental health courts, and veterans courts. Historical data reported by some of the problem-solving courts prior to FY 2019-20 are provided in Appendix B.

Regarding early childhood courts, this report includes the number of participants served by fiscal year for each year the early childhood court has been operating. The FDCIS, the OSCA's independent early childhood court tracking system, has been collecting data for these programs since its implementation in 2013. Because of this tracking system, the OSCA has the capability of generating the number of early childhood court participants by fiscal year. Table 3 contains data on early childhood court participants by fiscal year through FY 2022-23.

II. TYPES OF SERVICES PROVIDED

Table 4 displays the types of services commonly utilized by adult drug courts, dependency drug courts, juvenile drug courts, mental health courts, veterans courts, and early childhood courts. This listing is not exhaustive, as problem-solving court services for participants are community-based and tailored to the individual participant. Therefore, an individual problem-solving court may not provide all of the listed services or may provide additional services based on the needs of participants.

III. EACH SOURCE OF FUNDING FOR EACH COURT DURING EACH FISCAL YEAR

As noted in the Overview and Developments section, many problem-solving courts operate by utilizing funding from a variety of sources. Table 5 provides funding information for FY 2022-23 for adult drug courts, dependency drug courts, juvenile drug courts, domestic violence drug court, mental health courts, DUI courts, veterans courts, and early childhood courts. Appendix C provides historical funding information for FY 2011-12 through FY 2021-22. Funding information prior to FY 2011-12 is available for some problem-solving courts upon request. Funding sources for FY 2023-24 will be provided in next year's report when complete funding information is available.

This funding information reflects direct funding provided to problem-solving courts. The information was provided by the local problem-solving courts and compiled and edited by OSCA staff. Funding Purpose information for FY 2010-11 through FY 2015-16 is available for some problem-solving courts upon request. Finally, for FY 2016-17 and FY 2017-18, the OSCA did not collect any funding information from the programs in order to focus on other problem-solving court data. The OSCA resumed collection of this information in FY 2018-19 in response to legislative requests.

IV. INFORMATION ON THE PERFORMANCE OF EACH COURT BASED UPON OUTCOME MEASURES ESTABLISHED BY THE COURTS

In response to outreach to the judicial circuits for this report, the OSCA received and compiled problem-solving court outcome data from approximately 182 programs in 19 judicial circuits. The most common outcome data provided are graduation/successful completion and recidivism rates. The date ranges of data reported to the OSCA varied and are noted throughout Table 6.

A final graduation rate for participants admitted in 2019 will be generated after the final disposition of these cases. Graduation rates for 2022 are pending as a substantial number of participants are currently enrolled.

Recidivism rates are calculated to determine the number of participants who are arrested three years after graduation. Recidivism rates for participants admitted in 2020, 2021, and 2022 will be calculated at the end of 2023, 2024, and 2025 respectively.

The Drug Court model is based on participants having a severe substance use disorder and a high risk for recidivism (High Risk/High Need). It is expected that not all participants will graduate within a year.

The recidivism rate is calculated by tracking participants by cohort according to the year they graduated. The graduation rate is calculated by tracking participants by cohort according to the year they were admitted.

At this time, Citrus does not have access to data regarding closed cases but will initiate a framework to track that information going forward.

Care Coordination

As children come into care, the team is assigned at intake to provide care coordination which includes the following:

- Attend Shelter Hearing and Initial Multidisciplinary Team (MDT)

- Initial check-in with the family/foster parent to see how the child is adjusting to determine care coordination needs
- Initiate any needed referrals for services
- Regular staffings for the first four months of the cases for monitoring of adjustment, any additional care coordination needs, secure documentation of linkage to services, etc.
- Collaborate with FCMA to provide important insights into early childhood trauma and brain development

Monitoring

The ECC team provides ongoing monitoring for the life of the case, or until the child enters kindergarten. This monitoring includes the following:

- Review of developmental information for increased care coordination as the child develops
- Attend permanency staffings to ensure all family needs are met
- Attend any MDT meetings needed for young children to provide insights from an Early Childhood lens and assist with transition planning
- Consult on cases as needed

FLORIDA'S PROBLEM-SOLVING COURTS

Problem solving courts address the root causes of justice system involvement through specialized dockets, multidisciplinary teams, and a nonadversarial approach. Offering evidence based treatment, judicial supervision, and accountability, problem solving courts provide individualized interventions for participants, thereby improving public safety, reducing recidivism, restoring lives, and promoting confidence and satisfaction with the justice system process.

 Eric W. Maclure, Interim State Courts Administrator

Problem-Solving Courts

KEY FINDINGS FROM NATIONAL RESEARCH

Adult Drug Courts

- Drug courts have been shown to reduce both drug use and other forms of criminal behaviors in adult participants who complete the program (Mitchell et al., 2012). Well-conducted drug courts have been shown to reduce recidivism by 35-80% (Carey et al., 2012; Lowenkamp et al., 2005; Shaffer, 2006). Methodologically rigorous studies have shown that the effects of drug courts on recidivism can last three years or more (Gottfredson et al., 2005, 2006; Mitchell et al., 2012; Turner et al., 1999).
- Participants who received more services reported less drug use and committing fewer crimes (Multi-Site Adult Drug Court Evaluation Vol. 4; Rossman et al., 2011).
- Adult drug courts resulted in an average return on investment of $2-$4 on every $1 spent (Bhati et al., 2008; Downey & Roman, 2010; Drake, 2012; Drake et al., 2009; Lee et al., 2012; Mayfield et al., 2013; Rossman et al., 2011). This represents an approximate $3,000-$22,000 savings to the community per participant.
- Drug courts have been shown to have a significant impact in reducing overdose mortality rates (Lindenfeld et al., 2022).

Juvenile Drug Courts

- Juvenile drug courts have been shown to modestly reduce recidivism (non-drug related offenses) by approximately 8% among participants who complete the program (Mitchell et al., 2012). A national evaluation found that many (up to 77%) were not implementing the programmatic model faithfully (Latessa, et al., 2013), likely impacting court effectiveness.
- Increased access to mental health services and reduced cannabis use are among the benefits of juvenile drug court, particularly for high-risk youth (Belenko et al., 2022).

Dependency Drug Courts

- Dependency drug courts increase the rate of successful completion of drug treatment, reduce out-of-home placements for children, and increase rates of family reunification. Parents in these courts were 25-35% more likely to successfully complete drug treatment. Children spent 3-6 months fewer in out-of-home placement than non-drug court participants. 15-40% of participating families were eventually reunified (Green et al., 2009; Lloyd, 2015). Preliminary evidence exists to suggest that dependency drug courts reduce future criminal arrests among participants (Carey et al., 2010).
- Achieving reunification without increasing the possibility of foster care reentry or maltreatment re-report is significantly more likely for dependency drug court participants compared to non-participants (Zhang et al., 2019).
- Cost savings associated with these courts have been estimated to be between $5,000 and $15,000 per family, due primarily to a reduction in out-of-home placement (Zeller et al., 2007; Roche, 2005; Carey et al., 2010; Burrus et al., 2011).

Mental Health Courts

- Reductions in recidivism have been found for participants with serious mental illness (Cross, 2011; Sarteschi et al., 2011; Lee et al., 2012; Lowder et al., 2018; Loong et al., 2019). A 2021 meta-analysis found that mental health court participation corresponds to a 74% decrease in recidivism (Fox et al., 2021).
- Participants have also been shown to have lower rearrest rates and less time spent in custody (Steadman et al., 2011).
- Completion of mental health court is significantly associated with a lower risk of rearrest (39.6% vs. 74.8%), and defendants who completed the program recidivated after longer periods of time (17.15 months vs. 12.27 months) compared to those who did not complete the program. Additionally, mental health courts can reduce criminal recidivism for several years after defendants are no longer under the court's supervision (Ray, 2014). Regardless of graduation status, mental health court has positive effects on recidivism (Lowder et al., 2016).
- High-risk participants may benefit most from mental health court participation (Lowder et al., 2016).
- For every $1.00 invested in mental health courts, there is a cost savings of $6.96 (Lee et al., 2012). Other studies have reached conclusions that contradict the above findings of cost savings, suggesting it takes several years to recoup the increased costs of mental health courts' operation, with some never reaching a point of cost savings (Lindberg, 2009; Ridgely et al., 2007; Steadman et al., 2014).

Veterans Courts

- While little evaluation research exists for this type of problem-solving court, some studies show promising results for veterans courts including improvements in psychiatric health and reductions in substance abuse (Knudsen & Wingenfeld, 2016), as well as reductions in rates of rearrest (Commaroto et al., 2011).
- Veterans court participants have been shown to have better independent housing and employment outcomes compared to veteran defendants who did not participate in a treatment court (Tsai et al., 2016).
- Significant improvements in PTSD, depression, substance abuse, emotional wellbeing, relationships with others, recovery status, social connectedness, family functioning, sleep and overall functioning have been documented in veterans participating in veterans court (Knudsen & Wingenfeld, 2015).

Early Childhood Courts (Safe Babies Court Teams Project)

- Florida’s early childhood court is modeled after the national Safe Babies Court Teams Project, which has a scientific rating of “3” (promising research evidence) and a “high” child welfare system relevance level on the California Evidence-Based Clearinghouse for Child Welfare. It shows potential for: promoting greater collaboration among the courts, the child welfare system, and community providers to meet the needs of very young children; realizing positive safety, permanency, and well-being outcomes, and preserving family connections, and applying the science of early childhood development to the court process.
- In a 2009 study of 186 children, 97% of identified service needs were met and the majority of children achieved timely permanency. There was increased parent-child contact. More than two-thirds remained in 1 or 2 placements. For 99.05% of these children, a subsequent report of maltreatment was not substantiated within six months of the initial report (James Bell and Associates; Hafford, McDonnell, Kass, DeSantis, & Dong, 2009).
- The Safe Babies Court Teams Project data show that the project yielded a range of $8,500 to $18,000 of in-kind costs per child (one grant dollar generated another dollar of in-kind support).
- In a 2012 study, researchers found that children involved in Safe Babies Court Team initiatives exited foster care significantly faster than the comparison group. Savings generated from their earlier exits are estimated at an average of $7,300 per child. Children are more likely to remain with biological family members (Foster, E.M., McCombs-Thornton, K.L., 2012, Investing in Our Most Vulnerable: A Cost Analysis of the ZERO TO THREE Safe Babies Court Teams Initiative. Birmingham, AL: Economics for the Public Good, LLC.).
- Between January, 2015 and December, 2019, 577 children achieved permanency through 17 of Florida’s Early Childhood Courts. Of these children, 52% were reunified with a parent. Children in early childhood courts achieved overall permanency 105 days sooner than children in traditional dependency court and had a lower rate of re-removals (Office of the State Courts Administrator, 2020).
- Compared to traditional dependency court, early childhood court cases have lower average costs and better average outcomes (Florida Institute for Child Welfare, 2019).
- In a 2020 evaluation of early childhood courts, it was found that the median number of days a child involved in early childhood court spent in foster care was 614, compared to a median of 739 days for children in control cases (Faria et al., 2020).
